

Create your own luck.

Don't wait for it to happen on its own. Folks who go to college or train for a career are more likely to land a job with a starting salary of $50,000 or higher.

Step up, get some training, and grab yourself a job that pays off.

Texas colleges and universities are here to help you put in the work.

If you want to show opportunity who's boss, enroll in a higher education program and earn a credential that will help you earn a bigger salary and keep Texas strong.

And by college credential, we mean anything from a one-semester technical certificate to a Ph.D. (and everything in between).
